The Adar Bet

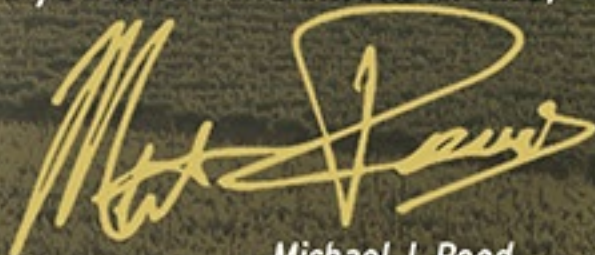

Unique to the Hebrew calendar, the phenomenon of adding another month in early spring at the close of the 12th month happens every three to four years. That 13th month is called Adar Bet because it follows the month of Adar; the word Bet in Hebrew refers to the second letter of the Hebrew alphabet and to the number 2. Thus, Adar Bet means “the month of Adar, part 2.”

Adding a 13th month to allow the barley in Israel to mature is extremely important because of what happens the following month, The Month of the Aviv, during which the Spring Feasts of the LORD occur. During the Spring Feasts, there is a requirement for an offering on the Day of Firstfruits consisting of the first barley harvest of the year. If the barley is not mature at that point, the offering cannot take place as commanded; and if the offering cannot take place on the Day of Firstfruits, the Feast of Passover cannot take place, either. Chosen officials check the ripeness of the barley (or lack thereof) at the end of the 12th month, at which point they can determine whether a 13th month is warranted to ensure that the barley will be ready so that the Spring Feasts can be observed as commanded.

The year during which Yeshua completed most of his ministry included an Adar Bet month. Occurring a month before his crucifixion, the extra month gave ample time for the barley to mature and for Yeshua to fulfill all of the prophetic shadow pictures embedded in the Spring Feasts that year — including the perfect timing of his death, three days and nights in the grave, and then presenting the “firstfruits from among the dead” offering before the throne in heaven. In fact, without a 13th month, Yeshua’s ministry would not have totaled exactly 70 weeks from the day of his water baptism to the day that he baptized his followers with the “fire” of his spirit at Shavuot (Pentecost).

By Monday, March 11, 2024 we will know whether we need to account for a 13th month. Regardless of the outcome, I wish you Rosh Chodesh Sameach (Happy New Month), and I hope you will joins us at Passover 2024, online at PassoverCharlotte.com.

See you when the smoke clears,
